Jesus waits at the well to have a conversation with the Samaritan Woman so that she can have encounter with Him.

“When we really believe that [Jesus] loves us completely, we will experience a new freedom to just be ourselves. It is in this authentic place that people will get to see the reflection of the true image of God that he always intended for us to be. I believe the safety and security that love brings will position our hearts to be reconnected with our heads and the world around us. No longer will we need to live under the lie that people read will reject us if they really knew us.” – Barry Adams, The Kingdom Belongs To Little Children
